Now, we take them to Disneyland, And to McDonalds for a Happy Meal. Round them up Give them an old tacklebox, And a fiberglass pole And an old plug or two You don t use anymore, Then say fish on When they catch their own dinner. It s not too late. Come with me. It s really not too late Fishing's No Good Without You, my 74,000 word autobiographical novel is about the difficulties of passing down legacies from one generation to the next within a family torn apart by divorce. Its second major theme shows how nature shapes our lives even though climate change and negligence are starting to destroy those wild places where we can still get in touch with it. Like Norman Maclean's book, A River Runs Through It, mine is an elegy celebrating men and women, mostly fishermen, who help boys grow up. Readers who want to pass on their family's legacy...
