Alas! wept the maiden, my father has told the king I can spin gold from straw, and the king has shut me up in this dreadful room to spin this load of straw into gold. If I do not, I am to stay here forever, month in and month out, shut in from the flowers and the fields and the beautiful woods. Well, well, answered the elf, that is a hard fate for a handsome girl like you. Now what will you give me if I spin this straw into gold for you, and so help you to go free? O, I would give you anything in all the world! cried the girl, but I own nothing but this pearl necklace. I will give you that. Very well, said the elf. If you give me all you have, certainly you can do no...
